1. Introduction

The EU Settlement Scheme (EUSS) is the UK Government's scheme to which European citizens must apply in order to stay in the UK after Brexit.

Citizens' rights form key parts of agreements reached between the UK, the EU and other European countries as part of Brexit. The rights of European citizens in the UK are guaranteed by agreements with the EU, Norway, Iceland, Liechtenstein and Switzerland.

The Welsh Government must adhere to these agreements and the Welsh Government's Minister for Social Justice, Jane Hutt, is responsible for EUSS-related activities in Wales.

Statistics on applications to the EUSS are recorded by the UK Government. High level statistics are published monthly and detailed statistics, including Waleslevel data, is published quarterly.

This report presents EUSS statistics relating to Wales up to 31 December 2022. Quarterly reports are provided to the Committee to inform its monitoring of this issue.

1. Background

Following the UK's exit from the EU, European citizens who were living in Wales before 31 December 2020 must have applied to stay by 30 June 2021.

This applies to citizens from EU Member States, Norway, Iceland, Liechtenstein and Switzerland but not to Irish citizens, who are exempt under separate arrangements. The number of citizens from these countries living in the UK is unknown, meaning nobody knows how many applications there should be.

Since its launch, over 7 million applications have been submitted to the EUSS. Successful applicants are granted a status of either 'settled' or 'pre-settled'. For background, see Senedd Research's previous article.

2. Latest quarterly statistics

Applications received by 31 December 2022

Up to the 31 December, 111,960 applications were received from Wales, including 19,690 applications for those aged under 18, against an estimated 95,000 eligible citizens who needed to apply.

Applications that received a decision

109,690 applications received a decision by the cut off for the statistical reporting and are referred to as 'concluded applications'.

Successful outcomes

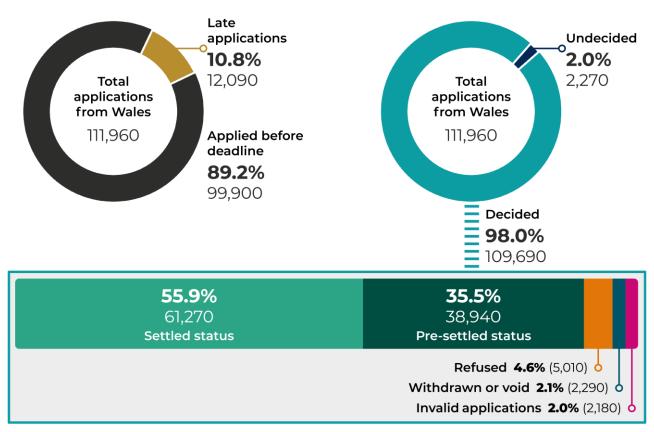

Successful applicants are granted a status of either 'settled' or 'pre-settled'. Both settled and pre-settled citizens can work in the UK and can access healthcare, education and public funds. They can also travel in and out of the UK and apply for citizenship. However, pre-settled citizens cannot bring family members to join them.

Since the EUSS opened, 55.9% of applicants in Wales have been granted settled status up to 31 December 2022 and 35.5% have been granted pre-settled status.

Unsuccessful applications are also reported. From Wales, 4.6% were refused (5,010 concluded applications), 2.1% were withdrawn or void (2,290 concluded applications) and 2.0% were invalid (2,180 concluded applications).

The infographic below shows the percentage and number of applications from Wales. It shows whether they were received before/after the deadline, whether they received a decision ("concluded") and the outcome of applications for European citizens in Wales up to 31 December 2022.

3. Pre-settled citizens: second application to stay

Pre-settled status expires after five years and must be converted to settled status via a second application. This means that the 38,940 citizens who have been granted pre-settled status and want to stay in Wales beyond its expiration will need to apply again.

The map below shows the number of pre-settled citizens in each Welsh local authority area:

Converting pre-settled status to settled

The number of those applying to convert their status from pre-settled to settled status are captured in UK-wide statistics on repeat applications.

These show that 479, 390 pre-settled citizens have moved to settled status. Information by UK nation is not provided. This means we do not know how many applications have been received from pre-settled citizens in Wales trying to convert their status.

Failure to reapply results in the automatic loss of a person's right to work, access housing, education and benefits, and they could be liable to removal from the UK.

Automatic loss of rights ruled as unlawful

On 21 December 2022, the High Court ruled that the requirement to make a second application to upgrade to settled status is unlawful. The UK Government will not appeal the decision and must make changes to the EUSS scheme as per the Court's instructions.

The body responsible for monitoring European citizens' rights in the UK, the Independent Monitoring Authority (IMA) brought the proceedings against the UK Government in 2022.

Following the ruling, the IMA, issued a press release summarising the ruling which said that:

- 1. a right of residence can only be lost in very specific circumstances which are clearly defined in the EU Withdrawal and EEA EFTA Separation Agreements. A loss of rights for failure to upgrade from pre-settled to settled status was not one of those circumstances, and so by imposing a requirement to upgrade residence status the Home Office was acting unlawfully; and that
- 2. those granted pre-settled status are entitled to reside permanently in the UK once they have resided there for the required five-year period.

IMA advises that while the judicial process continues, pre-settled citizens should continue to make a second application to convert to settled status when they become eligible.

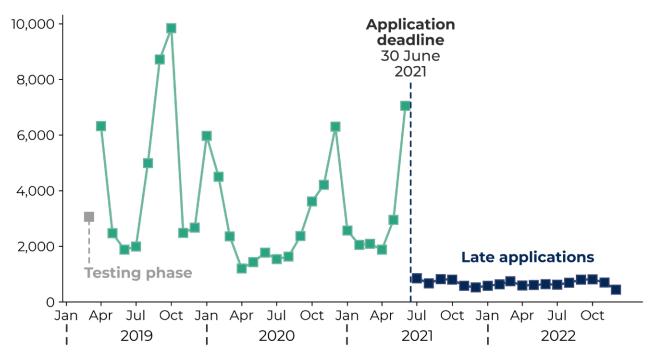

4. Late applications

The EUSS remains open to receive late applications, which are allowed if a person has reasonable grounds for missing the deadline. Examples include where a parent has failed to apply on behalf of a child or where a person has a serious medical condition. The UK Government has promised to protect the rights of those with reasonable grounds for missing the deadline.

The number of late applications from Wales increased to 12,100 at the end of December from 10,150 at the end of September 2022. Monthly statistics show that late applications remained steady at 810 in October before falling to 700 in November and 440 in December, as shown on the graph below.

5. No application

If a person has not applied to the EUSS and they come into contact with UK authorities, they will be issued with a 28 day notice to apply. The UK Government says that people who have not applied after the 28 day notice period will not be eligible for work, benefits or services and will not pass tenancy checks.

They may be liable for enforcement action, although the UK Government emphasises that deportation will not be automatic.

2. Welsh Government support

Since 2019, the Welsh Government has provided over £2.7million in short-term free advice and support services to those applying to the EUSS, which has been regularly extended.

On 23 March 2023, the Minister for Social Justice issued a statement explaining that:

- An additional £200k will be provided to Citizens Advice and Settled to provide support for this financial year; and that
- Newfields Law will see its contract extended for an additional six months to enable the firm to support the health and social care sector with overseas recruitment, which will include further support for EUSS applications.

6. Ukraine

As part of the measures taken in response to the Russian invasion of Ukraine, the First Minister asked the Prime Minister to extend the deadline for EUSS family permit scheme to allow Ukrainian family members of eligible European citizens to come to the UK. The scheme was not extended beyond its 29 March 2022 deadline. After this, the 'reasonable grounds' criteria, applicable to late applicants, applies.

The EUSS statistics show that 14, 140 Ukrainians had applied to the EUSS up to 31 December, with 13,880 having received a decision. Information by UK nation is not available.

However, the UK Government recently confirmed to the Welsh Government that 80 applications with a Welsh address had been made to the EUSS.

7. Next steps

In addition to its ongoing work on the EUSS in Wales, the Committee agreed in January 2022 to routinely:

- publish regular monitoring reports on European citizens' rights in Wales, available on the Senedd's website; and
- share its reports with the Independent Monitoring Authority.
