

I'm finding it very difficult to understand why an A.M living in a mansion house in England should be allowed to claim accommodation expenses in Cardiff. If he really can't be bothered living in the country he is, supposedly, representing then I do not see why 'I' should pay him extra.

His journey from his English home is approximately 1 hr.

Please do not waste my money on people that don't even live here and pretend to care.

It cannot be allowed.
