I'm finding it very difficult to understand why an A.M living in a mansion house in England should be allowed to claim accommodation expenses in Cardiff. If he really can't be bothered living in the country he is, supposedly, representing then I do not see why 'I' should pay him extra.

His journey from his English home is approximately 1hr.

Please do not waste my money on people that don't even live here and pretend to care.

It cannot be allowed.
