... works for the construction or emergency installation of premises, installations or infrastructures of ports, railways, airports and airports, required by the reestablishment of checks of goods and passengers to or from the United Kingdom, whether or not there is a withdrawal agreement. Provisions adopted by order on its basis must be made within six months of its publication.

The withdrawal of the United Kingdom from the European Union will lead to the restoration of veterinary, sanitary, phytosanitary and safety controls and customs formalities. These checks will have to be put in place on the day of withdrawal in case of exit without agreement, or at the end of the transition period in case of entry into force of the withdrawal agreement.

At present, with regard to the Channel / North Sea seaboard, border posts of veterinary and phytosanitary border inspection services (SIVEP) are present in Le Havre, Dunkirk, Saint Malo and Brest. However, they are not sized to control all the batches coming from the United Kingdom or do not have facilities approved for all types of flows (absence of control facilities for live animals in Le Havre and Dunkirk in particular). In addition, the entry points to, among others, Roscoff, Cherbourg, Caen-Ouistreham, Dieppe and Calais as well as the Channel Tunnel do not have border posts to date.

... In addition, carrying out these checks will take a significant amount of time, which will slow down the flow of traffic and may therefore quickly lead to congestion in the port, rail and road infrastructures.

... They will have to be made before the withdrawal of the United Kingdom and taking into account the arrangements that the other Member States will take.
